Ben Hohman directs this romantic comedy written by John Patrick Shanley.

Anthony (Bryan Blackburn) and Rosemary (Andrea Vingo) are two introverted misfits straddling 40. Anthony has spent his entire life on a cattle farm in rural Ireland, a state of affairs that, due to his painful shyness, suits him well. Rosemary lives right next door, determined to have him.

But, Rosemary has every reason to fear romantic catastrophe — with Anthony's father threatening to disinherit him and a land feud simmering between their families.

With a surprising depth of poetic passion, these yearning, eccentric souls fight their way towards solid ground and some kind of happiness. Their journey is heartbreaking, funny as hell and ultimately deeply moving.

Fleury new director

Julayne Fleury has been certified a qualified director of Driftwood Players.

Julayne Fleury

At the January board of directors meeting, Judy Dossett, mentor director of The Language Archive, recommended Fleury's certification. The motion was seconded by Gary Morean and passed on a voice vote with no objections.

As qualified director, Fleury may now submit plays to be considered for production by Driftwood Players.
